

Robin Hood's main characters

His name is Nottingham's Sheriff. He wears a cape, boots, a belt and gloves. He is a bad person because he steals money from the poor. In the story, the sheriff collects taxes for King Richard / in the name of King Richard / in King Richard's name / on behalf of King Richard.

He wants to catch Robin Hood because he is an outlaw. He tries to kill him. He tries to trap Robin Hood thanks to an archery contest.

His name is King Richard. He wears boots, an armour, a cape and a helmet or a crown. He is riding his horse. He gives orders because he is the king. Perhaps he is a bad person because he looks angry and the sheriff acts wrongly in his name.

His name is Robin Hood. He wears a green outfit, composed of a green hood, a cape, boots and green leggings/trousers to hide in the forest. He has a bow, he practises archery. Besides, he is very talented because he is the best archer in the realm. He is a good person because he helps poor people. He robs rich people and gives money back to the poor.

His name is Little John. He wears boots, a tunic and trousers. He holds a stick. His favourite weapon is the stick. He is a good person because he looks like a lumberjack. He met Robin hood on a bridge that he defended. He becomes Robin Hood's best friend. Robin even nicknamed him Little John. It is paradoxical because he is tall and strong.

The Merry Men are men who live in Sherwood Forest. They all wear old and dirty clothes. They become Robin Hood's friends and help him rob the rich to give back to the poor.